Ike's Support Of Benson Foreshadows 1956 Policy Battle

Issue Certain Whether He Runs Or Not

DENVER, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower's 100 per cent support of Secretary of Agriculture Benson put the Democrats on notice today that they face a 1956 Eisenhower battle for administration policies—whether he runs again or not.

And by backing the besieged Cabinet officer all the way the recuperating President in effect served another notice—that any Republican grumbling about Benson on the politically hot farm price issue isn't likely to move the chief executive.

Those points stood out as Eisenhower made encouraging new progress in recovery from his Sept. 24 heart attack. The doctors at Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported that the President this morning took the longest unassisted walk of his convalescence—about 30 to 40 feet from the corridor back to his room.

Longest Walk
In the room earlier he walked from his bed to the bathroom for the first time, and shaved himself.

Eisenhower's 30-to-40-foot walk was not only his longest so far but the first outside his room. He had been rolled in a wheel chair to Mrs. Eisenhower's room across the hall from his own.

The 65-year-old President also got started during the morning on another oil painting, the fourth in the last couple of weeks. This latest one is from a photograph of a winter scene at Fraser, Colo., a Rocky Mountain area where Eisenhower has fished for trout many times.

Word that the President is standing by Benson on the administration's highly controversial farm program came out at Benson's news conference late yesterday.

Benson met with newsmen after he and Eisenhower had discussed agriculture problems—mainly declining farm income—for 30 minutes in the President's hospital room.

Underscores Recovery
Eisenhower's discussion of what the White House classified as an "explosive issue" also served to underscore the recovery progress he has made. It was the first time he had tackled a really hot domestic problem during his convalescence.

And it apparently had no harmful effect because the doctors permitted the President the new walking privileges this morning and reported that he awoke "feeling refreshed and cheerful" after a good night's sleep of eight hours.

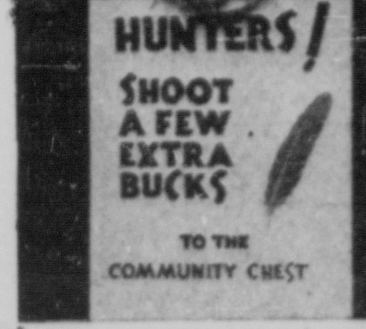

The hospital bulletin also included the familiar phrase—"His condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications."

One Dead, 10 Wounded While Hunting Game

By The Associated Press
THE FIRST DAY of the small game hunting season in Pennsylvania brought death to a 12-year-old boy and wounds to 10 other persons. Four men suffered fatal heart attacks while hunting.

Thousands of Pennsylvanians took to the field for a crack at grouse, quail, wild turkeys, ring-neck pheasants, cotton tail rabbits and squirrels.

The season runs through Nov. 26 and Saturday was the first day of hunting. There was no hunting Sunday.

William Woodward Jr., Owner Of Race Horse Nashua, Shot Accidentally By His Wife

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—William Woodward Jr., 35, wealthy young socialite owner of the racehorse Nashua, was killed by a shotgun fired by his wife early today. She said she thought he was a prowler.

When she switched on a light and discovered what she had done, Mrs. Ann Woodward, 32, picked up the telephone and screamed and sobbed hysterically for help.

Police arrived at the Woodward's sprawling 15-room mansion to find the striking blonde wife kneeling by the nude body of her husband.

Investigating
The death was listed as "accidental pending further investigation" by Nassau County Dist. Atty. Frank Gulotta. County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell said, "It was more likely accidental than homicide."

The young couple had been married 12 years, had bagged tigers and other big game in India together, and had become ardent horse enthusiasts when Woodward inherited the famous Belair stables from his banker father in 1953.

Their horse, Nashua, bested Swaps, the winner of the Kentucky Derby this year, in a $100,000 match race at Chicago Aug. 31. After Mrs. Woodward was given a sedative she was questioned by authorities briefly before being taken by ambulance to a New York hospital. They pieced together this story:

Attended Party
The Woodwards had spent the evening at a party for the Duchess of Windsor, given by Mrs. George F. Baker at a nearby estate.

At the party they talked about a prowler who had been breaking into houses along the exclusive estate-dotted North Shore of Long Island, and apparently had made two attempts on the Woodward home.

They returned home at 1 a.m. and searched the rambling French Provincial house to make sure a prowler had not broken in.

Then they went to bed in separate bedrooms, across a hall from each other on the ground floor of the building. Each kept a gun at hand, Woodward a pistol and Mrs. Woodward a shotgun.

About 3 a.m. Mrs. Woodward was awakened by the barking of her gray toy poodle. She got up and grabbed the shotgun.

Fired At Movement
In the hall she thought she saw a movement, and fired. The blast hit her husband in the right side of the head. He was just inside the doorway of his bedroom.

He fell dead and a second charge splintered the woodwork of the door.

"Almost immediately, I realized it was my husband," Gulotta told the weeping wife told him. "I ran to him and fell on the floor beside him."

The couple's two children, William III, 10, and James, 8, slept through the shooting. They were taken to their grandmother's house in New York without being told of their father's death.

Senators Urge Benson To Use "Soil-Bank" Farm Aid Plan

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 30 (AP)—Republican members of the Senate Agriculture Committee are urging Secretary of Agriculture Benson to make a quick adoption of the so-called "soil-bank" farm plan idea so that he and the party might claim credit for it.

The committee—which is touring the country seeking views on how to bolster farm income—found in midwestern hearings last week on the soil-bank idea than any other farm proposal.

Under this proposal, the government would channel supplemental income into farmers' pockets while they took more positive action to curb price-depressing surpluses by taking a part of their crop land out of production and putting it to soil-building uses.

500 Million Cost
Proponents have estimated the program would cost 500 million dollars or more. It could be eliminated, they said, once surpluses were used up. GOP members of the committee, who asked that they not be quoted by name, predicted that the Democratic-controlled Senate committee will write the soil-bank proposal into a farm bill at the coming session of Congress.

"If Benson would come out for this program now," said one of the GOP senators, "both he and the party could claim credit. It would help to quiet farmer criticism of Benson."

The committee today carried its search for ways of improving farm income—now a major political issue—to the wheat-growing area of the Pacific Northwest.

It scheduled a hearing here tomorrow to get views of farmers of this region on how the job might be accomplished.

Prediction Of Balance May Set Off Slash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Sens. Byrd (D-Va.) and Williams (R-Del.) said today they will oppose any move in the next session of Congress to cut taxes until there is an actual federal surplus in hand.

But a survey by legislative experts indicated any prediction by President Eisenhower that the budget will be balanced in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 will signal a headlong rush by Congress to reduce individual income taxes.

Forecast Budget
Staff members of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation are said to have reached the conclusion that it will be possible for the President to forecast a budget balancing.

Because his administration has made this one of its chief goals, the congressional experts think the President will make such a prediction.

Once the goal is officially proclaimed in sight, congressional leaders concede they would have difficulty in stopping an immediate tax cut, especially because of the imminence of presidential and congressional elections.

Byrd and Williams made it clear in separate interviews, however, that they will fight the tide.

Byrd, who heads the tax-handling Senate Finance Committee, contended that any tax cut made effective in the calendar year of 1956 would prevent actual balancing of the budget and eliminate the prospect of paying something on the federal debt.

Pay Now?
"What's the chatter with starting to pay something on the debt?" he asked. "If we have a surplus, it ought to go to pay off some of the tremendous amount the government owes rather than be returned in the form of a tax reduction."

Byrd said that while he agrees budget balancing is in sight it would be unsafe to make a permanent tax cut that was "based on present boom conditions." He said he looks for no major slump, but fears the possibility that business won't keep up its present pace.

Williams, a member of the Finance Committee, said he is "not going to vote to cut taxes on borrowed money."

"When there is a surplus actually on hand, I will be for a tax cut and not before," he said.

Deposed Sultan's Return Boils Moroccan Politics

RABAT, French Morocco, Oct. 30 (AP)—Moroccan politics boiled toward a climax today as deposed Nationalist Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef ended his Madagascan exile and his successor renounced the throne.

Flood Alerts Ordered In New England

By The Associated Press
WHIPPED BY heavy rains and wind, the Northeast braced itself Sunday for a possible third onslaught of floods in 10 weeks.

Five deaths were blamed directly on the weather.

Twice-ravaged Connecticut was placed on a preliminary flood alert.

Weather Bureau advisories from New England and New York points Sunday forecast up to six inches of rain in 24 hours. Scattered areas were drenched by four inches of rainfall.

In Syracuse, N. Y., winds estimated at 100 miles an hour ripped five airplanes from their moorings, tore the roof and doors from hangars and blew in windows.

The Weather Bureau classified the winds as an "unconfirmed tornado."

Streams spilled over their banks in Eastern and Central New York, hit by the Oct. 15 flood disaster. Highways and railroad tracks in some parts of the state were flooded.

The Weather Bureau said, however, that the floods were not expected to be as bad as two weeks ago.

Torrential rains drenched parts of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont.

68th Flood Victim's Body Found

A MAN ON A peaceful Sunday walk discovered the body of Monroe County's 68th August flood victim yesterday at 4:45 p. m.

According to Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, county coroner, the body was found in the waters of Sambo Creek below the end of Maple Ave.

Travis Seese, assistant police chief in East Stroudsburg, identified the man who found the body as Louis Mondelle of 107 W. Broad St. Seese said Mondelle was walking through the wooded region along the creek, came to a small wooded bridge and started to cross.

Halfway across the bridge Mondelle looked down and saw the body floating in the water. Mondelle called borough police and the coroner.

Rushmore said the body is that of a man of undetermined age. The face had been completely washed away by water, the coroner said, but the body is still fairly well preserved. There were four lower teeth in the mouth.

Efforts to identify the man's body will begin today, Rushmore said. State police will attempt to take fingerprints, the coroner said, since the tissues of the fingers are reasonably intact.

Yesterday marked the first time in more than a month that a body had been found following the August 18-19 flood.

Leader Says Stevenson Right Man, At Right Time

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania said today Adlai Stevenson is "the right man in the right place at the right time for the Democratic party."

Leader, who has come out before for Stevenson as the party's 1956 presidential nominee, also suggested it would be well to have a Southerner on the ticket for vice president.

He said he thought the Democrats could win even if President Eisenhower should run again.

In a televised interview—ABC's "College Press Conference"—Leader said the illness of President Eisenhower had changed the picture of things.

"You don't cheer when the All-America tackle on the other team breaks his leg if you're playing football against him," Leader said.

Bo's Record
He said the Eisenhower record and not the man himself would become the issue. He added that he doubted Eisenhower would be a candidate "under the circumstances."

Leader said he would not accept a "favorite son" role for himself in the contest for the Democratic nomination.

Asked to mention possibilities for vice president, he named Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), the governor of Tennessee (Frank Clement), Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) who ran with Stevenson in 1952 and added there were "a lot of outstanding men in the South."

Confers With Red, Israeli Statesmen

GENEVA, Oct. 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles conferred today with Russian and Israeli statesmen in a two-way effort to douse flashpoints of possible war in the Middle East.

Dulles protested to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov against Soviet bloc arms sales to Egypt on the ground they might touch off new Arab-Israeli fighting. He emerged from the hour-long meeting apparently with no assurance that the Red arms flow will be halted.

Calm Fears
The American next sought to calm the fears of Premier Moshe Sharett that Israel will be left alone and unaided to face Egyptians reinforced by Red arms. Without committing the United States, Dulles promised to consider sympathetically any precise requests for arms that Israel might make for normal defense needs.

The secretary meantime arranged for quick conferences later with the heads of two European governments vitally concerned in Mediterranean stability. He flies Tuesday to Madrid for talks with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco and five days later to Brioni to meet Yugoslav President Tito. Soviet threats and thrusts in the Mediterranean area doubtless will be discussed.

"Israel considers her very existence now menaced by this massive increase of strength falling to her sharpest and most pronounced enemy," Sharett said. "If it is not possible to prevent that massive arming (of Egypt), then Israel's military power should be strengthened as soon as possible. Also there should be added a security guarantee which might act as a deterrent to any evil designs of renewed aggression against her territorial integrity and her very survival."

Power Balance
The United States, Britain and France are known to be considering another reaffirmation of their 1950 promise to act against any Mideastern aggressor. They also undertook then to maintain a military power balance between Israel and the Arabs.

The Western powers are sure about one thing: They must avoid any actions that might start an arms race in the region where they get considerable oil and where their vital air and sea lanes to Africa and Asia pass.

The new power struggle appeared to overshadow the stalemate negotiations of the Big Four foreign ministers on European matters. These developments were reported in the last 24 hours of rapid fire diplomatic activity.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan protested Saturday to Molotov that the Soviet bloc seems to be heightening the chances of a new Mideastern explosion by selling arms to Egypt.

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay told a reporter he understands Egypt will be getting 200 Russian fighter planes, presumably under the arms deal with Czechoslovakia, besides scores of tanks, heavy weapon supplies and some submarines.

Two Accidents Occur In Fog On Route 611

TWO ACCIDENTS occurred on Route 611 in Mount Pocono early yesterday as a heavy fog fell over the area.

Two Marines were injured when their car went out of control, jumped over the highway divider, smashed six guard rails, then bounced back onto the road and ended up in the opposite direction from which it was traveling.

Borough Police Chief William Post identified the driver as Dennis Peyton, 21, of Bloomington, Ill., and his companion as Clifford J. Leathers Jr., of Lumberville, Pa., owner of the vehicle. Both were treated for multiple lacerations and abrasions by Dr. E. O. Hendrick, Mount Pocono. Damage to their late model sedan was estimated at $750 by Chief Post.

Earlier, some $350 damage resulted when two cars were in collision near Ralff Pines Lodge. Chief Post said Margaret Messier, 25, of Tannersville, was attempting to make a left turn when her car became stalled and was struck by an oncoming auto operated by Stanley W. Dolinak, 52, of Troop.

Kentucky, Philadelphia Top Elections

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Kentucky's gubernatorial election featuring a comeback bid by A. B. "Happy" Chandler as the Democratic candidate and a Philadelphia mayoralty battle between two self-styled liberals hold the spotlight in the off-year state and local elections coming up Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The scattered voting also embraces selection of state legislatures in Kentucky, New Jersey and Virginia, and scores of city elections.

Mississippi also elects a governor, but this will be only a formality since the Democratic primary decides the winner in this traditionally Democratic state. Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman won the run-off primary Aug. 23 and is not opposed in the election.

The Nov. 8 balloting offers little in the way of possible indicators for the 1956 presidential election. No congressional seats are being filled, although one Democratic vacancy in the House, from Michigan, exists.

Philly Fight
However, Republicans might have cause for shouting should they win uphill battles for Kentucky governor and Philadelphia mayor. Both seats are now held by Democrats. Most political observers make the Democratic candidates favorites in both races, despite a split in Democratic ranks in the Bluegrass State.

Chandler is opposed by Republican Edwin R. Denney, 51 year old former U. S. district attorney. Denney supporters are counting on many disgruntled Democrats staying at home or bolting to him. The split in Democratic ranks resulted from Chandler's primary victory over Bert T. Combs, who had the combined backing of Gov. Lawrence Wetherby's state organization and U. S. Senators Earle Clements and Alben Barkley. Wetherby and the two senators have since said they would support the ticket in the election.

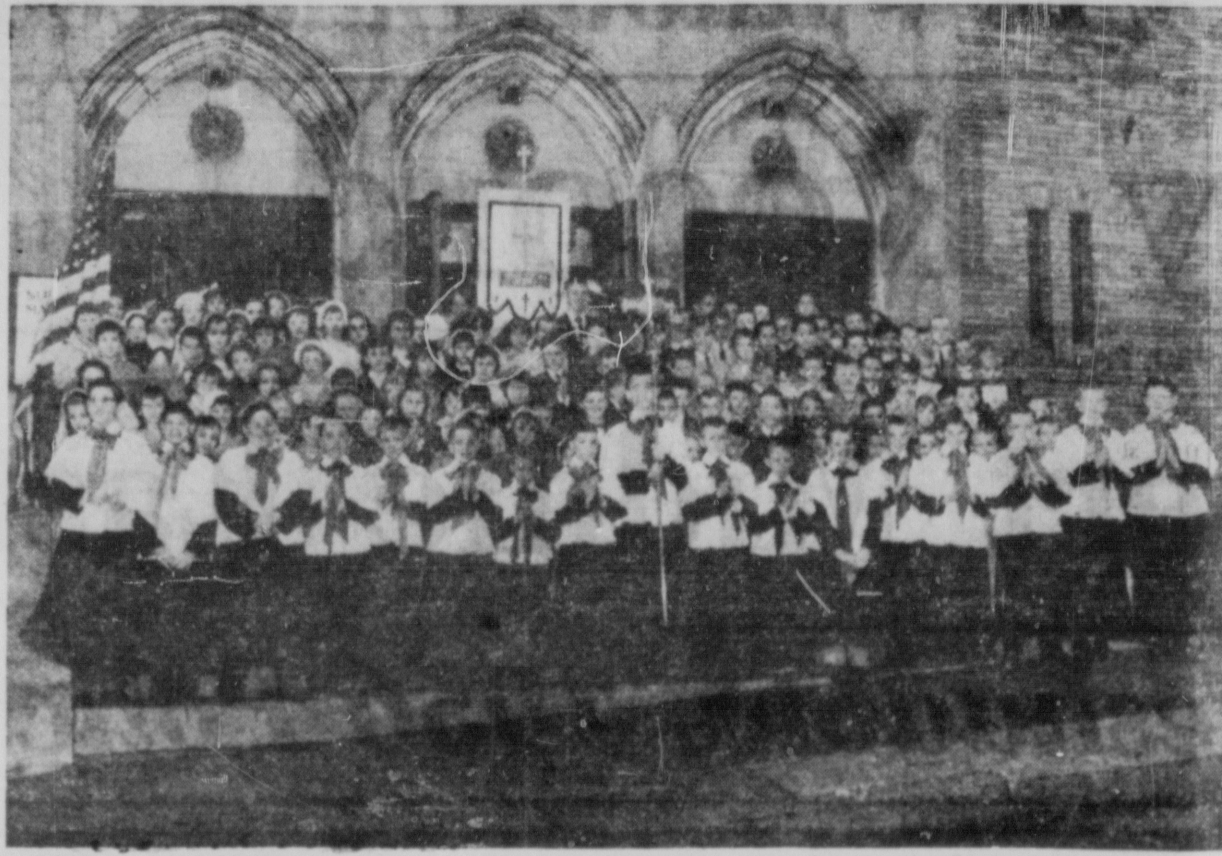

In Philadelphia the voters will choose between the veteran Democratic campaigner Richardson Dilworth and Republican W. Thacher Longstreth, young advertising executive.

Praises Clark
Dilworth, 57 year old former district attorney, is a close political ally of Democratic Mayor Joseph S. Clark, who declined to run for another term. The two teamed up in 1951 to oust Republicans from top city hall posts for the first time in 67 years.

Dilworth says Clark has brought "good government" back to Philadelphia after years of Republican "misrule." Longstreth retorts the Democratic government costs too much and Dilworth and Clark are controlled by capitalistic interests. Both candidates claim to be liberals and Longstreth calls himself an Eisenhower Republican. Most observers give Dilworth a big edge because of a voting trend toward the Democrats in city voting in recent years. Also he has a rejuvenated Democratic organization behind him, whereas Longstreth is running without the open support of what remains of a Republican organization in the city.

Political experts see Mayor Clark as a possible contender for the seat of Sen. Duff (R. Pa.) next year if the candidate, Dilworth, wins handily Nov. 8.

Other cities holding elections include Boston, Cleveland, Indianapolis, and dozens of other smaller cities in Arkansas, Connecticut, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, and Wyoming. Many local elections are nonpartisan.

The young men and women also offered the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and received Holy Communion in a body. They came from elementary, high schools and colleges from throughout the area.

Before introducing the speaker, Rev. H. G. Durkin, pastor of the church, stressed the "grave importance of parental responsibility and the obligation upon parents to see that their youth are properly trained spiritually, culturally, socially and physically."

Rev. John A. Esseff, assistant at St. Matthew's, challenged the youths to "go forth uncompromisingly under the banner of Christ the King" who "though his palace was Calvary, his throne a cross, his crown made of thorns, remained and still remains an uncompromising king."

Reformation Challenge By Rev. Staack

SOME 800 Protestants last night were challenged to recognize that the Reformation must have significance today.

The challenge came from Rev. Hagen Staack, professor of religion at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, who was guest speaker at the annual Reformation Day service, sponsored by the Monroe County Ministerial Association. The service was held in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

"We are not here to observe a memorial of history," said Dr. Staack. "The Reformation must be a present-day thing, or it is nothing at all."

"We live quite comfortably today," he continued. "The only thing that keeps us away from church is the rain or the good weather when we can take a ride through the Poconos."

"We are not bothered by persecution," he said. "We live in a time when Christianity is acknowledged and we have a place in the world." However, Dr. Staack noted that any festival of the Church must be a festival of gratitude.

Christian Freedom
We observe Christmas because God gave to us His Son, he said. Easter because it makes possible our salvation, and the Reformation because of its call to Christian freedom.

Dr. Staack reminded that, in 1520, Martin Luther wrote a tract in which he outlined Christian freedom from sin and self, and freedom for service to God.

"A false freedom," he said, "is a freedom only from something—and not for something."

"There is a common idea among so-called Christians," he continued, "that we can work out 50 percent of our salvation, although this is not the testimony of the Scriptures."

He said the Bible teaches that men must recognize, as Luther did, their absolute need, trust Christ to fulfill that need, and then to go out and start working for him.

"I leave with you the challenge to live daily with Jesus Christ looking over your shoulder," Dr. Staack concluded. "Try to live for 24-hours by putting Christ in everything you do, think, feel or say. It isn't easy."

The U. S. shrimp industry employs about 15,000 fishermen and another 15,000 people in shore establishments.

M. S. Goulding Jr., district engineer, said last night work will get under way as soon as township supervisors have given the State formal clearance.

Mountainhome

Three of the projects will be carried out in the Mountainhome area, Goulding said, and the other two are contemplated for Canadensis.

Reports made late last week that work in Monroe and Pike counties is virtually complete were grossly erroneous, Goulding emphasized last night.

"We still have a great deal of work to do in the entire district," said the engineer, "and we are completing our investigations as quickly as possible, preparatory to beginning the actual work."

Goulding also disclosed that clearance is expected shortly on a new project in Tobyhanna, which involves removing the remains of a dam which was washed out in the flood.

Another project is already underway in Scotrun, Goulding said.

High Water Hurts

"Work is progressing as well as can be expected," he said, "on the three projects now being carried out in the Stroudsburg area. Since launching these projects, high water has stopped work on several occasions, and may so do again for the next few days."

Workers are clearing Broadheads Creek north of the interborough bridge to protect the low-lying Park St. area of East Stroudsburg.

A large gravel bar is being removed from the Pocono Creek above the W. Main St. bridge. And Pocono Creek between Stroudsburg and Stroud Township is being widened and the stream banks reinforced.

Sen. Wade Challenges House Democrats On More Industry

HARRISBURG, Oct. 30 (P)—A Republican senator contended today that House Democrats have delayed the answer to the problem of attracting new industry into the state.

"If Gov. Leader is as deeply interested as he represents himself to be in doing something about chronic unemployment, he should immediately urge the Democratic leadership of the House of Representatives to bring this bill out of committee and pass it," said Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland).

He referred to the Senate-passed measure creating a Pennsylvania Business Development Corp. The corporation, with state backing, would be empowered to sell bonds to raise money to finance new industry.

Wade said Leader has accused the Senate GOP of "obstructionism."

"Here is a measure which has bipartisan sponsorship and the unanimous support of all the members of the Senate," he added, "All we need now is a little co-operation, the keynote of effective effort, to finish the job."

Leader has proposed creation of an industrial development authority with a state appropriation of 20 million dollars to be spent in loans for erection of plants to be leased for new industry. The measure has been pigeonholed in Senate committee.

$325 Damage Result From Collision

SOME $325 damage was caused shortly after noon yesterday when two cars were in collision seven miles north on Stroudsburg Route 611 in Tannersville.

State Police said the accident occurred in almost the same spot where a late model sedan crashed into a huge road roller last week.

Pic. Eugene McGuire, investigating officer, said William C. Stephens, 64, Carbondale, had slowed his car down as he approached signs warning him of rough pavement ahead.

Suddenly, an auto operated by James J. Guillana, 31, Pittston, which was traveling in the same direction, crashed into the rear of Stephens' car, McGuire said.

There were no injuries.

Three Girls Injured In Two Car Crash

THREE TEEN-AGE girls were injured at 11 a.m. yesterday when their car spun out of control on Route 209 in Sciota and was in collision with a second auto which then was struck by a third.

State police said Charlotte Johnson, a 17-year-old student from Newton, N. J., was operating a 1950 convertible which skidded on the slippery pavement into the path of an oncoming auto driven by Louis F. Auger, 60, RD2, Stroudsburg.

Pic. Edward T. Benesi, investigating officer, said Auger's car crashed into the left side of Miss Johnson's auto. The Auger vehicle then was hit by a third car which was unable to stop in time. That car was operated by Arthur Snook, 72, Lewistown, the trooper said.

Treated At Scene

State Police said Miss Johnson, and two companions were treated at the scene for minor injuries by Dr. John Martucci, and were then taken to General Hospital in the West End ambulance. After further treatment, they were released.

Miss Johnson suffered multiple abrasions, Mary Ann Nomiath, 18, Shenandoah, was examined for possible rib fractures, and Ruth Bahjejian, 18, Frackville, was treated for a laceration of the left knee.

Damage to Miss Johnson's car was pegged at $200, while damage to both Auger's and Snook's cars was estimated at $300 each.

Duff Says Eisenhower's Four Point Domestic Plan Act Of "Social Justice"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (P)— Sen. James Duff (R-Pa.) says President Eisenhower's Four Point domestic program announced at Denver last week is an act of "social justice" for Pennsylvania communities with a number of unemployed.

The President's plan is to be detailed later in a message to Congress. It is designed to provide technical assistance to areas of high unemployment and to make federal funds available to communities for industrial and other projects.

The Pennsylvania senator said the program is especially designed to aid where coal mines have either closed or been exhausted, where there has been a decrease in industrial production, or in areas once occupied by factories.

Home Owners

"In many such communities people own their homes, which often represents a large portion of their holdings," Duff said in a statement. "They don't want to be uprooted from a community where they have lived long or even if they did they could not afford to sell their homes all at one time."

He continued, "This new program recognizes the obligation of all the people, as represented by the federal government, to perform an act of social justice by helping distressed communities when it is clear that by reason of causes beyond their control they can't help themselves."

Labor Department statistics as of July showed that 19 of the country's 31 major labor areas had unemployment of 6 to 9 per cent. Three of the areas were Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Reading. Erie was one of five major labor areas with unemployment between 9 and 12 per cent.

Modest Social Security Payments, Up After 20 Years, Provide Good Cushion

Now that the Federal Social Security program has been in operation for 20 years and covers nine out of 10 in the working population, it is hard to realize that it was viewed by some as a radical notion when it first was proposed.

Despite its size, it is not nearly as burdensome as the "cradle to grave" systems of some other nations. And although both the taxes and payments have been increased with the cost of living, the woman who received the first benefit check of $22.54 in 1910—Miss Ida Fuller of Ludlow, Vt.—now receives a monthly payment of only $51.50. The new maximum payments are $108.50 a month for a retired worker, plus $54.25 for his wife if she is qualified by age. The Social Security program still is relatively young, since only 7.5 million people are drawing benefits from it while more than 70 million have worked long enough to be covered by it.

But modest as these payments are, they provide a cushion against want that few of the beneficiaries probably could have afforded otherwise.

Capabilities Of Modern Photography Can Eliminate 'Carnival' In Court Rooms

One of the most controversial subjects of recent years has been whether pictures should or should not be permitted to be taken in a court of law during the progress of a trial.

Hot and heavy have been the arguments on both sides, with newspaper photographers quite understandably contending that the latest photographic techniques provide no interruption of trial procedures, while a number of judges took the opposite point of view.

So it remained for the American Bar Association, in annual meeting at Philadelphia, to experiment through the medium of a mock trial and while nothing in the way of final determinations could be reached, the trial gave evidence of finding on behalf of the photographers.

During its progress, photographers took several hundred pictures with the proceedings, and while Judge Herbert F. Goodrich of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals contended that he still was against picture-taking in court rooms, he had to admit that the modern methods did nothing to interrupt the dignity and decorum of the court.

Obviously the answer is not to be found in the bar association's experiment, but it is true that the cause of press photography was given considerable assistance through the manner in which the technique of picture-taking was presented.

We hold with the courts that trials should not be a given anything like a carnival atmosphere by indiscriminate "shooting," but by the same token we are convinced that the silent capabilities of present day photography should be utilized in what is essentially a public meeting.

Wood Comes To The Rescue Once More: We Must Make Sure It Stays With Us

Our oldest material for shelter—wood—may prove to be the best source of protection against the newest hazards of war.

Researchers in the Government's forest products laboratory have developed a wood-fiber they say will protect civilians and troops from atomic dusts and poison or germ warfare.

Although it looks like the fiberboard used in ordinary home construction, they say chemicals in it will screen out deadly gasses and particles. At the same time oxygen and carbon dioxide will pass through it, so persons inside shelters may breathe for a considerable time.

To provide shelter for our entire population, or even the urban portion of it, would require an enormous amount of wood. But that is another reason to be thankful we have learned to conserve our great forest resources.

The forests that sheltered our ancestors still shelter us, to a great extent. We should make sure they always will be at hand, for we may need them more than we realize.

George Sokolsky Says...

Some Matters Historically Settled And Cannot Be Historically Undone

It is always difficult to realize that time does not stand still and that therefore the certainties of youth become the doubts of middle age. Surely in 1955, no practical politician, who seeks votes, will quarrel over the issues of the 1932 or the 1936 campaign. Some matters are historically settled and cannot be undone as for instance, when a nation goes to war, the consequences of war are always upon it. The idealists, on the outskirts of political action, may still debate whether the New Deal was right or wrong, forgetting that Roosevelt hammered the New Deal into the very life of the American people. No one will undo SEC, or the NLRB, or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in the Federal Government until recently headed by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby and now by someone I know not of. These have become fixtures.

I recently came off my high perch and witnessed a performance on television by one Edward R. Murrow whom I had avoided since his McCarthy show which was more vaudeville than instruction. This time, Murrow was attempting to educate, without the benefit of the Aluminum Company of America, on the Vice Presidency. He resorted to John Tyler and Daniel Webster to no particular advantage, they not being candidates in 1956. The data was at times blurred by a young lady selling lipstick which I can do without, but that is part of the game.

It seemed to me that what Mr. Murrow was trying to say was that Vice Presidents are not much used although seven of them have become Presidents and not so bad on the record. For instance, Harry Truman, if one reads his biography, may turn out to be quite a fellow in the history of his country and surely no one can today deny Theodore Roosevelt his rightful place even though it was Mark Hanna's William McKinley who was elected to the Presidency and unfortunately shot. I cannot quite understand why Murrow despises Vice Presidents, so unless it be that he is attempting to alert the people against Richard Nixon, of whom he makes comparatively scant but on the whole beneficial mention, for he does bring out the highly explosive political fact that Eisenhower liked Nixon, which statement could get Nixon the nomination at San Francisco.

The entire television show seemed to be designed to scare the American people about Vice Presidents and it even included a sequence from Morris Ryskind's "Of Thee I Sing" written in Morris's youth before he became an arch-constitutionalist and fought the Left Wing in Hollywood. The beloved Victor Moore, also of another vintage, did a scene from this play and landed in a Koshier Boarding House in Washington which may be as good a place to live in as the White House if you listen to Presidents' wives, none of whom seem to care for the place as it is neither a home nor a place but a tourists' show place where no one can find the peace of mind that is described in "Home, Sweet Home," which is no longer sung by a jet-minded youth.

What a pity it is that we who remember better days do not leave the world to those who remember nothing. The point of Murrow's television show escaped me except for the idea that he does not go for Vice Presidents although they are here to stay, being part of our system in accordance with the Constitution. The only real good sense on this program was Harry Truman's comment, namely that to abolish the Vice Presidency, or to change the status of that office or the mode of selection would require a constitutional amendment, which is true and would not affect too much in the year 1955 or 1956.

It was good to see Henry Wallace again on this television, because put it as you will, Henry Wallace has left a permanent mark on our history as Vice President and even if he did make a wrong turn at one point, so did most of the American people and that is why we pay such high taxes all our lives. But on the whole and on the record, Henry Wallace was a more effective citizen than we knew when we were all partisans.

"What's the trouble? We've been out of New York most of the afternoon and I can't see Eiffel Tower yet!!!" Life up there around the sonic barrier can be beautiful but we don't want to be the first world tourist to have an outer-space windburn and be heard crying, "Where am I and is anybody positive?"

"On the road the most polite people are truck drivers," Harry Truman... You're right—wag just ain't working, Harry... This is the first case of somebody acting as an "emcee" for a walk around the block... The Once Over

"Jet Cruise, Anyone?"

We may be aboard one, but our first reaction to those 100-passenger jet planes to Europe, Asia or around the world is to say, "When we are in that much of a hurry on a pleasure trip we will have our reservation made through a psychiatrist."

We like our tours and are fond of old world places, but have no yen to bust sound barriers on Cook Tours. In seeking the shortest distance between given points we want to be able to differentiate between a point and a vapor trail. Life gets complicated when you have to interrupt "America I Love You" in mid-chorus because the hostess says it's time to sing "Paris in the Spring."

When this writer travels he wants to know he is performing as a tourist, not seeking a booking as "the human bullet." It is comforting, we think, to know one is on a pleasure cruise to Europe or Asia and not pioneering a round-trip service to the moon, with money back if five seconds behind schedule. At the moment we would as soon seek a vacation on a flying saucer. We like to know for sure whether we are coming or going, although life is getting so complex it doesn't make as much difference as it once did. Fancy having a hostess serve you lunch over New York and suddenly notify you that you won't have time for dessert and coffee as you are too near Paris! And imagine those jet plane tourist questions: "Is this a fast plane to Europe or does it take over five hours?"

Ike's Illness Gave World Latest Coronary Education

Well, I trust that by this time nearly everybody's symptoms of heart trouble, developed as a result of the Eisenhower experience, have subsided and that we all can get back to our normal worries—like whether our backaches are caused by slipped discs or could we be going off our rockers mentally.

One good word you can say for the President's heart attack: It certainly gave the world a quick and intensive education in the nature and habits of the coronary thrombus.

In a few short weeks we have been exposed to more reading matter on cardiovascular disease than all the health columnists combined have written about vitamin deficiency and athlete's foot in the last quarter-century.

Very interesting stuff, too, for the most part, and quite enlightening. We may not know much more than we did before about heart disease but we know a lot more about doctors.

This running dissertation on coronary thrombosis in the public prints has been a revealing, and on the whole encouraging, demonstration of the studied prudence of reputable medical men. Seldom have they talked more and said less.

One good and sufficient reason for this, I gather from what I have read, is that nobody really knows very much to say. That wouldn't prove any serious handicap to less responsible people but I am deeply impressed by the resolute manner in which most of the doctors have stayed within their limitations.

It has been a beautiful thing to behold—the way they have stuck to what they know and have parried all the efforts of sharpshooting interviewers to feint them off balance and tempt them to make flat assertions they couldn't back up.

"Many in the scientific world believe..." "one notion that is now being widely recommended..." "whether that will help is another question..." "a very interesting experiment was performed..." "it hasn't been studied sufficiently to say it categorically..." "that will require more careful investigation..." "we are in too early a stage..." "I would doubt very much that..." "it's awfully hard to say..." "if I were to guess..." etc., etc., etc.

I never saw so much cautious hedging, qualifying and sidestepping. And that's all to the good, for the truth of the matter appears to be that nobody knows for sure exactly what brings on heart attacks or what should be done to avoid them.

If that's the truth it may not do us any particular good but surely it shouldn't do us any serious harm to know it. At least in discussing the matter the medicos have scotched a lot of baseless old-wives' tales and relieved thousands of people of the burden of frightening misinformation.

More important than that, they have shown themselves to be conscientious professional men who are trying to keep their feet on solid ground. What more can anyone ask?

Henry Morgan cites the case of one unfortunate who begged a psychiatrist to cure him of the habit of collecting spaghetti. "My whole living room is cluttered with the stuff," he wailed.

"Why," suggested the brainy one, "don't you store it in the closet?"

"I can't," explained the unfortunate one. "That's where I keep my meat balls."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Democratic National Group To Remain Neutral In Race

Washington, October 31: Senator Kefauver, Governor Harriman and sundry others will be interested to know that Democratic National Committee officials intend to be "neutral" in the stormy race developing for the presidential nomination.

At least that's what National Chairman Paul Butler proposes to announce at the Committee's big pre-convention pow-wow in Chicago November 17-19.

He will also urge the Committee to take forceful measures against "auxiliary" electioneering organizations, which caused a lot of grief to national and state Democratic leaders in the 1952 battle.

Butler's contemplated "neutrality" declaration is well-advised. It won't come a moment too soon. He and other Committee chiefs are under increasing fire for favoring Adlai Stevenson. Partisans of rival candidates are angrily complaining the national machinery is being used against them.

Kefauver's supporters, particularly, are up-in-arms on this score.

In California, which the Tennesseean carried by a wide margin in the 1952 primary, the National Committee is being publicly charged with trying to "scuttle" him.

Kefauverites have been saying they will raise the issue at the Chicago conference. This could cause a noisy explosion. Whether Butler's proposed assurances will head it off, is conjectural. In an effort to avert a blow-up, he is talking with close friends of Kefauver.

Butler is in a good position to do that, because privately he disapproves of certain things that have been done in the name of the National Committee. The Indianan is warmly for Stevenson, and makes no bones about it. But he readily agrees the National Committee should be "strictly neutral" in the nomination race, and that's what he will proclaim at Chicago.

Butler can also put his heart into demanding a crackdown on "side" campaigning outfits. He's been annoyed and hampered by them since becoming National Chairman last December.

Time and again Butler has been by-passed and disregarded on matters directly affecting the National Chairman. He is determined to put an end to that this year so he, or his successor, will be in full control in the 1956 fray. That was not the case in 1952. Then, Stevenson had both a National Chairman and a personal campaign manager—who at times worked at cross purposes.

Note: All Democratic presidential candidates and leaders have been invited to the Chicago meeting, and acceptances already have been received from Kefauver, Harriman and former President Truman. They are scheduled for speeches as well as Stevenson—who will not announce his candidacy at the concluding Saturday night dinner. The Illinoisan will do that the day before at an occasion especially arranged for the purpose. Some of Kefauver's advisers want him to do the same thing; he is still undecided about it.

GOP Politicals—Senator Joe McCarthy is working hard to make sure that a Republican will oppose Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) next year. McCarthy's latest candidate for that is Representative Glenn Davis, who has strongly supported McCarthy and made no secret of having senatorial ambitions. . . . Senator Frederick Payne, Me., is not up for election until 1958, but he doesn't believe in taking any chances. He has already started his campaigning. He launched it with a 12-page "mid-term" report summarizing everything he has done since coming to the Senate. First mailing was 7,500 copies, with a request that the constituents pass them on to friends. . . . Certain Ohio leaders want to substitute Treasury Secretary Humphrey for Senator George Bender in next year's tough contest, but neither of them is giving the slightest indication of being willing to do that. Humphrey wouldn't mind being a Senator, but won't try to wrest the nomination from Bender.

Demo Politicals—Tennessee Governor Frank Clement is claiming he is Stevenson's choice for keynoter at the 1956 convention. Clement also would like very much to be Stevenson's running mate. . . . So would former Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan, who is being actively backed for that by the Farmers Union. The Coloradoan is general counsel of this third-largest farmers' organization. . . . Chester Bowles, one-time Governor of Connecticut and Ambassador to India, is making quiet soundings on running for the Senate next year, against Senator Prescott Bush (R., Conn.). . . . Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex., has told Senator Wayne Morse, Ore., he will get "all-out" re-election help in 1956. Wrote Johnson, "If I can do campaigning and you want me, you can count on my going to bat for you to the limit. I'll be happy and proud to speak for you in Oregon."

For several generations after male physicians began to attend women in childbirth, in seventeenth-century Europe, a doctor had to perform his obstetrical manipulations with his head stuck through a large sheet that completely covered the mother to lessen her embarrassment.

Even in the coldest weather, doors or windows of garages should be left open when an automobile engine is being operated indoors as in warming up, because carbon monoxide accumulates rapidly. It is odorless, colorless, and tasteless and a person exposed to it may have no warning before he succumbs. According to best scientific evidence it takes only about five minutes in the average size, unventilated, garage to build up a lethal concentration of carbon monoxide from an automobile engine that is running.

While driving on winter days, at least one window should be cracked at all times sufficiently to permit good air circulation, since carbon monoxide fumes (as from a defective muffler) can seep into the car through the floor boards.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

Song In Season

Oh, Autumn's a wonderful time in Manhattan

For lads wearing stars when the ladies wear satin. For first nights and third night and dancing and dining.

For hansom kebs riding and orange moon shining. A glamorous, amorous, handholding season.

When gals lose their scruples and guys lose their reason. When night clubbing's right clubbing all through the week.

When men-about-town find the frolics they seek. Yes, Fall is the time to remember to fall.

All over again for this prize pot of call!

The Broadway Lights: Shirley Booth (one of the theater's Golden Girls) attracted glib notices for her delightful make-believing in "The Desk Set," which came to the Broadway Theater. Unfortunately, the reviewers testified that the script was barren of nuggets, the spectator (a militant dissenter) rejoiced: "Shirley Booth is the Sun, the Moon and the Star of another Laugh hit." Her popularity is like this: The advance sales (especially parties) assure the show of a run until after the Yule holidays. . . . Miss Booth, you may recall, was last in a musical which suffered the same critical appraisal—but it ran for 23 weeks. . . . The famed Gallie troupe.

Warnings against the dangers of carbon monoxide, often called "the unseen killer," were issued today by the Pennsylvania State Department of Health.

The dread gas was to blame for a majority of the 88 deaths of State residents last year attributed to either carbon monoxide or illuminating gas, the Department emphasized. But proper and timely precautions in operating furnaces, gas appliances, and automobiles can help in avoiding monoxide poisoning, it is pointed out.

Since defective furnaces are one of the greatest potential sources of dangerous or deadly concentrations of carbon monoxide in the air we breathe, these furnaces should be checked now, before the advent of the heating season, Hugh Sarraf, of the Health Department's Bureau of Environmental Safety, suggests.

"Now is the time to have a gas utility company representative or other equally qualified serviceman check and service all heating equipment. Pilots, burners, and air filters should be cleaned if necessary. Hot water heaters should be inspected also," he declares.

Leaky gas pipes or fixtures, smoke from chimneys, and concentrations of automobile exhaust fumes are other sources of toxic qualities of carbon monoxide.

It is odorless, colorless, and tasteless and a person exposed to it may have no warning before he succumbs. The Cinema: "Rebel Without a Cause" (starring the late James Dean) explores the jungle of juvenile delinquency. The activities of young animals are realistically dramatized, reported reviewers. . . . They testified that "Frisky" sure is. Thanks to Gina's lulu, but the script won't win medals. . . . "Illegal" has Edward G. Former Portland Residents Announce Marriage Of Son

Portland — Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fleet Jr., of Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada have received the announcement of the marriage of Miss Harriett Edwards, daughter of the late Erwin Edwards and Mrs. Eva Lewis of Syracuse, N. Y., to Richard Lucas Fleet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fleet, of Fredericton.

Colorful hydrangea and gladioli and lighted tapers decorated the home of the bridegroom's parents where the double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Aubrey H. Moore, minister of the Wilmet United Church.

Miss Bessie Fleet, aunt of the groom presided at the piano.

The young couple were attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Jane Fleet and Henry Ingalls of Grand Manan, N. B.

The bride was lovely in a ballerina length gown of nylon net over taffeta with a pointed bodice of Chantilly lace and a mandarin collar. Her parison sleeves formed a point at her wrists. The fingertip veil of nylon illusion fell from a halo of shattered white carnations and baby breath and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby breath.

Her attendant, Miss Fleet, was wearing a lilac ballerina length gown of nylon net over taffeta having pointed bodice and scooped neckline. Her headress was a half circle of yellow rose buds and baby breath and she carried a nosegay of the same flowers.

White tapers and gladioli and a three tier wedding cake decorated the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleet spent their honeymoon at a cottage on Grand Lake, N. B. and are now residing in Fredericton, where the bridegroom is with the Federal Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Mrs. Fleet is a stenographer with the Oxygen and Welding Supply Co.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Fredericton Business College and the bride of the Gloversville, N. Y. High School.

For her honeymoon, the bride chose a black and white rabbit hair wool suit with black accessories.

(Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fleet, son Richard and daughter Jane were former residents of Portland, Mr. Fleet having been the principal of the Portland High School.)

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The weather has always been man's chief topic of conversation, but lately it's been almost as controversial as politics or philosophy. Everybody seems to have his own theory as to what's happening.

But everybody agrees that something is happening. That almost-November thunderstorm we had over the weekend, for instance. It might have been merely a routine storm in April, but for Halloween it seemed even more weird than the costumes.

Tacked on to the end of the open winter last year, the drought and the flood, it seems ominous, somehow, as if old values were changing, or the land drifting south, or the calendar getting confused.

While there is a hard core of people who insist this changing weather is due to atom bomb tests, most people seem to think it's the melting arctic ice pack, or the shifting of the arctic jet stream.

Rising ocean levels, sinking fresh water levels, tropical fish moving north, and birds which used to winter in Florida not bothering to move from Pennsylvania; it's a topsy-turvy world.

And it's apt to be a topsy-turvy month of meetings, too with the first Monday coming six days after the first Tuesday. Which reminds me we'd better get started with the week right now.

BETTY BEST
says:

Unless Uncle Sam's postmen make a big mistake, or some imish fairy with a super-magic wand is at work, I doubt that either you or I will receive a $25,000 card this Christmas. But at least let's not toss any of our cards aside unopened . . . and let's really enjoy the ingenuity, beauty, and sincerity of the 5-to-25 cent variety which we usually receive. The truth of it is, ALL of this year's greetings are a r e "too precious for words."

Now that Women's Days are over, two of the scheduled specials have arrived — a big shipment of lovely nylon gowns especially purchased to sell at 3.98, and a wonderful assortment of Ship 'N' Shore blouses priced at 2.29.

The blouses are "slightly irregular" . . . and even that seems to be an over-statement. As a matter of fact, the imperfections are so insignificant, in most cases they are past discernment. Styles are adorable . . . some have tiny tucks running full length of the front . . . others have delicate cut out embroidery. A number are strictly tailored in the traditional Ship 'N' Shore way. The cotton is the usual fine quality used in this famous blue line, and there are plaids and checks as well as plain. Some have long sleeves, some short.

The gowns at 3.98 are of 40 denier nylon in pink or blue, with delicate shadow embroidery trim, sizes 34 to 40. Baby doll sets are also offered at the same price in S, M, or L, red or blue.

I wanted you to be among the first to know of these two buys, because they're "for real." If you could have seen the alert shoppers snatching them up Saturday, you'd rush in early if you're interested.

Lorraine Flagler, our store Shopper, had a rather baffling experience Saturday when she dialed extension 274 and Roe Bush's voice answered. "Good morning. Delicious." For a moment both were startled—then they began laughing. Roe had meant to say "Deliveries," but his mind was on the Delicious apples he's selling there in our parking lot. One of these so aptly named apples a day would be a wonderful way to keep the doctor away . . . providing, of course, the doctor isn't your husband!

Bangor Scouts Vote To Help Sister Scouts

Bangor — Girl Scout Troop 81 voted a donation of $10 to aid the Stroudsburg girl scouts made homeless by the recent flood, in a meeting held in the First United Evangelical Church on Monday night.

The troop also elected officers for the coming year. Elected to office were Susan Fishler, president; Jane Kressler, vice president; Kay Dally, treasurer; Margaret Hamm, assistant treasurer; Linda Matlock, scribe; Brenda Farino, assistant scribe; and Sharon Kaufman, news reporter.

In other activity, the troop was grouped into patrols as follows: Tenderfoot patrol, Debbie Sandler, Linda Matlock, Brenda Fehr, and Judy Luscombe; Senior patrol, Anne Seyfried and Brenda Roberts; Sixth grade patrol, Karen Cowling, Antonio Turto, Margaret Hamm, Carol Albright, Judy Share and Karen Strout; and Seventh grade patrol consisting of Kay Dally, Sharon Kaufman, Brenda Farino, Jane Kressler, Marjorie Callie, Susan Fishler, and Sandra Turto.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

The day may come when you'll see armed guards standing at the entrance and exit of our Cardcase. We may even find it necessary to install electric eyes here and there to protect the cards. If you think all this is a pipe dream, consider the fact that one of this year's most fabulous Christmas cards has just found a buyer, even though its price tag read $25,000.

Progressive as we are, I doubt that such a card will appear in our Wyckoff stock until uranium has been discovered in all of our back yards . . . but who can say this won't happen? It's nice dreaming, isn't it? We can tell you how such a Christmas card would look, however—we've read about it in the newspapers, and even seen it on television.

Created by Alice Daly, wife of an assistant Attorney General for the State of California, it is in the form of a three-dimensional tree, the boughs of which are decorated with a genuine ruby, sapphire and emerald, and a scattering of diamonds and pearls. The border breaks down into two diamond bracelets and two diamond clips . . . and the entire thing can be sent through the mails in a white envelope.

Unless Uncle Sam's postmen make a big mistake, or some imish fairy with a super-magic wand is at work, I doubt that either you or I will receive a $25,000 card this Christmas. But at least let's not toss any of our cards aside unopened . . . and let's really enjoy the ingenuity, beauty, and sincerity of the 5-to-25 cent variety which we usually receive. The truth of it is, ALL of this year's greetings are a r e "too precious for words."

Now that Women's Days are over, two of the scheduled specials have arrived — a big shipment of lovely nylon gowns especially purchased to sell at 3.98, and a wonderful assortment of Ship 'N' Shore blouses priced at 2.29.

The blouses are "slightly irregular" . . . and even that seems to be an over-statement. As a matter of fact, the imperfections are so insignificant, in most cases they are past discernment. Styles are adorable . . . some have tiny tucks running full length of the front . . . others have delicate cut out embroidery. A number are strictly tailored in the traditional Ship 'N' Shore way. The cotton is the usual fine quality used in this famous blue line, and there are plaids and checks as well as plain. Some have long sleeves, some short.

The gowns at 3.98 are of 40 denier nylon in pink or blue, with delicate shadow embroidery trim, sizes 34 to 40. Baby doll sets are also offered at the same price in S, M, or L, red or blue.

I wanted you to be among the first to know of these two buys, because they're "for real." If you could have seen the alert shoppers snatching them up Saturday, you'd rush in early if you're interested.

Lorraine Flagler, our store Shopper, had a rather baffling experience Saturday when she dialed extension 274 and Roe Bush's voice answered. "Good morning. Delicious." For a moment both were startled—then they began laughing. Roe had meant to say "Deliveries," but his mind was on the Delicious apples he's selling there in our parking lot. One of these so aptly named apples a day would be a wonderful way to keep the doctor away . . . providing, of course, the doctor isn't your husband!

TELEVISION IS BEING enjoyed by an ever increasing number of people throughout this great land of ours. Zenith has been a pioneer in the field of electronics for over 36 years and have led the entire industry in new types of tuning devices. Now Zenith and MEGARGEL'S present their crowning achievement—FLASH-MATIC Tuning. Flash-Matic tuning is easy chair tuning, without wires, that automatically turns the TV set on and off, automatically selects stations and automatically turns sound on and off... all you have to do is sit back in your favorite chair and let a weightless and invisible extension of your arm perform the tuning functions, quick as a flash. See this marvelous new Zenith Television today at MEGARGEL'S, 511 Main Street in Stroudsburg. See... Try... and convince yourself that this is it... the finest TV on the market today.

All Worked With Flash Of Light; Without Unsightly Wires Cluttering Rooms

NOW... A FLASH of light tunes your Zenith TV!
It turns the set on... turns the set off... changes channels... shuts sound off during annoying commercials while the picture remains on the screen. And it's all done with just a flash of light.

No Cords
It's "Flash-Matic," electronic tuning that uses no unsightly cords. And it's brought to you by Zenith Television and Megargel's, 511 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Flash-Matic is Zenith's latest development in tuning. It's automatic, electronic and so convenient. Just imagine—from your easy chair you can turn your Zenith on or off, change the channels, and even shut off long, annoying commercials while the picture remains on the screen. Just a squeeze of the trigger and a ray of light from your Flash-Matic gun does all the work.

Best of all, you don't even have to get up. There are no wires or cords for people to trip on, no dust-catchers lying on the floor. You'll find a new comfort in watching television with Flash-Matic—it's leisurely and convenient. It's electronic magic!

You get a better picture—and yet Cinebeam requires less beam current, lengthening tube life. All the electronic light inside your Cinebeam tube is reflected outward by millions of tiny tarnish-proof metallic particles. The mirror-like action of these tiny particles gives you a better, clearer picture.

Cine-Lens is the plus factor for Cinebeam that gives you deeper contrast for better viewing. Cine-Lens makes the pin points of picture-producing light appear whiter, brighter and makes the dark spaces between the pin points even blacker. You get a deeper picture of greater contrast and reduce light reflections from the room. Zenith, pioneer in Cine-Lens, has made it the proven factor for better, more comfortable viewing.

Katz' Radiant Heating Has Ultimate In Solid Comfort With Sound, Clean Results

DID YOU KNOW you can have radiant heating in almost any style of house in almost any price bracket?

Radiant heating affords you the ultimate in comfort and cleanliness. Call Bob Collins of the D. Katz & Sons plumbing and heating division for the full story on what radiant heating can do for your home.

Biggest Advance

You feel warm through and through in air temperatures that stay healthfully moderate. You enjoy a feeling of snugness you've never known before.

Yet, radiant heat costs little, if any, more than many of today's old-fashioned heating methods.

Radiators and registers gone! Absence of dirt-catching radiators and dirt-spreading registers gives you freedom in furniture arrangement, provides many extra square feet of usable floor and wall space.

Clean Heat
Clean as a pin. Would you like clean, draft-free heat that won't streak walls? With Radiant Heating, paint, curtains, and furnishings look like new years longer.

You save plenty on cleaning and redecorating costs. And weekly dusting chores almost disappear.

NICK PATELLA, former tackle on the East Stroudsburg High football team, was on hand to see the Cavaliers battle Hellertown on Saturday. Nick is on Fall leave from Hargrave Military Academy, at Chatham, Va. Nick is dividing his time between tackle and fullback with a squad that has won three and the lost the same number of games. Patella will become a freshman at North Carolina State next September.

Ed Morrell, West Chester back who scored the winning touchdown against East Stroudsburg State Teachers College recently, is the brother of Nancy Morrell, former field hockey star at ESSTC. West Chester's starting backfield has two freshmen, a sophomore and a junior in the ranks. All will be eligible for competition through their senior year. The Rams have only two seniors in their number one line.

The fact that Nazareth crushed Bangor by a 34-0 count on Friday has raised a lot of eyebrows in the area. In the first four games for Muhlenberg Don Herman caught three passes, good for 97 yards. This total is only eight yards less than the team leading total of 105 racked up by leader Bob Lee. Herman earned his scholastic letter at East Stroudsburg High and is now a regular wingman for the Mules.

Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at Stroudsburg High, is working night and day in putting together the giant program to be made available at the Thanksgiving Day football clash between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High Schools. Serfass and his assistants were taking pictures of the Cavaliers last Friday and gaining information about the various rivals for the year book.

Dan Donovan, head linesman during the East Stroudsburg Junior High-Pen Argyl football game on Friday, is the broad jump and javelin star on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College track team. Barrett girls claim that Joan Gravelle and net Elfreda Denesche scored the two goals that enabled Barrett to gain a 2-1 verdict over Pocono in a field hockey game the other day. The Monroe County Softball League and the Pocono Mountains Baseball League are holding their banquets on the same day, Saturday, November 19. East Stroudsburg High had its scouting forces out in full force on Friday night.

Head Coach Jack Kist, Doug Schoonover and Mike Jacobella scouted Nazareth against Bangor, while Dick Forster went to Port Jervis to see next Friday night's opponent in action. East Stroudsburg plays Port Jervis at Memorial Stadium next Friday, while Stroudsburg is at Gordon Giffels Field with Stratford in a Lehigh Valley League struggle. This is the only conflict on the schedule this season. I can remember when it used to happen several times a year.

The University of Virginia has published a special pamphlet on John Polzer, billing the 210-pound guard as an All-America candidate. Polzer played his scholastic football at Nazareth. Barrett High School is searching for one more pre-season basketball foe. Interested teams may contact Coach Joe Murray at the school. Two basketball teams of a post-high school age are being formed in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Don't forget that tickets for Booster Night, to be held at Giffels Field on Friday, go on sale today. They may be purchased at Community Jewelers and Rea Derick Drug Store. Some tickets are also still available for Wednesday's Pocono League banquet to be held at Pocono Manor Inn. A huge crowd is expected to attend the affair and interested parties are urged to pick up their tickets immediately. Tomorrow may be too late.

Karl Weingartner and Tom Metzgar, former athletes at Stroudsburg High, were spectators at the Lafayette-Gettysburg football game, at Gettysburg, last Saturday. Bruce Pipher, guard on the East Stroudsburg High football squad, is hopeful of returning to action next Friday against Port Jervis. Bruce has been out of uniform since dislocating his right elbow in the struggle with Bangor. He discarded the sling this week. Nazareth plays Emmaus next Saturday before meeting East Stroudsburg for the Lehigh Valley League championship the following Saturday.

ESSTC Grid Machine Rolls Over Kutztown Teachers

Warriors Run Up Early Lead

EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College scored almost at will on Saturday as it breezed to a 40-14 victory over Kutztown in a Pennsylvania State Teachers College Football Conference battle fought on Normal Hill.

The victory enabled the Warriors to even their conference mark at two wins and a pair of setbacks, while Kutztown has dropped three and tied one contest in four trips to the post against conference opposition.

Even though ESSTC racked up its third win in five tries against all opposition, the home town forces had to come from behind in the early stages of the contest before building up the big winning margin.

Art Castellucci, who won his scholastic football spurs at Bangor High, whipped a pass to Keith Newhard good for 18 yards and a touchdown early in the first period. The touchdown was made possible when Kutztown recovered a fumble by Don Carbone on the ESSTC 32 and Castellucci smashed to the 18 before throwing the payoff pass. Rocco Donofrio added the extra point from placement and Kutztown assumed an early 7-0 lead.

But, it was ESSTC's day to howl and the Warriors did exactly that. Late in the first period Dick Mering, former East Stroudsburg High star, ripped off a 23-yard scamper and then Gary Keller fadded back to pass. When the former Hummelston High star saw all his receivers were covered, he calmly ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Denny Roth evened matters at 7-7 when he place kicked the extra point.

The Warriors really went on the warpath when they scored three times in the second period. The first TD of the quarter came on a 25-yard pass play from Jim Oplinger to Wilmont Smith. Smith made the catch in the endzone. Roth's point attempt was wide of its mark.

ESSTC's second touchdown of the quarter was made possible when Al Hoffman, who missed scoring in a game for the first time this season, intercepted a Castellucci pass on the Kutztown 1. On the first play of the series Keller swept his own right end for the touchdown. Roth's placement was good.

The Warriors tallied their fourth TD of the first half when Kutztown was unable to get away a punt because of a bad pass from center. ESSTC took over possession on the Kutztown eight and Keller passed to Dick Blase on the first play of the series for a touchdown. Roth added the extra point and the home team held a commanding 27-7 edge at the half-way mark.

Kutztown cut its deficit slightly by scoring its second and final touchdown of the contest in the third period. The big play of the drive was a 39-yard pass from Castellucci to Jim Hoffman. This play put the ball on the ESSTC five. Tom Sawyer finally drove over from the one and Donofrio added the extra point.

ESSTC saved its final push until the last quarter when the pupils of Coach Gene Martin tallied two more times.

Mering returned a punt 49 yards to the Kutztown one and then drove over the double chalk mark on the next play. Oplinger passed to Smith for the extra point and the Warriors enjoyed a 34-14 advantage.

The final touchdown of the marathon came a few minutes later when Smith recovered a fumble on the Kutztown 35. Ken Huber drove the Kutztown 11. Keller slammed to the one and Allen-town's Dick Bleam bulled through the middle of the line for the score.

Catasauqua Just Squeaks Past Stroudsburg Foe, 6-0

CATASAUQUA — Stroudsburg High's rejuvenated grid machine came within one foot of registering the biggest football upset of the Lehigh Valley League season on Saturday afternoon, but the Mountaineers were forced to bow before undefeated Catasauqua, 6-0 here on the home field of the Rough Riders.

The Mountaineers did everything but score against Catas as the vastly improved pupils of Coach John Whitehead ran up a startling 14-3 first down advantage and a 152-49 edge in net yards rushing. Ronnie Stopp completed four of six passes for 51 yards and directed the Mountaineers to their best game of the campaign, even though they were forced to accept their fifth defeat in six trips to the starting gate this season.

Catasauqua, currently battling Northampton for the Lehigh Valley League championship, drove into Stroudsburg territory only twice in the entire game. Once the Rough Riders recovered a fumble to make the grade and the second time they used a screen pass, the play that Caty coaches saw Whitehead work so expertly against the Mountaineers.

The recovered fumble came in the third period and set up the only touchdown of the game. Ronnie Stopp, back to pass, was rushed and swarmed under by a host DUKES UNDEFEATED record disappeared into the Autumn skies on Saturday morning as Navy ground out a 25-0 victory over the previously undefeated charges of Coach Reg Nauman. The East Stroudsburg Midget Football League game was played at East Stroudsburg Junior High.

Navy was in complete control of the game from start to finish as the Middies moved into a first place deadlock with Duke.

Don Wescott opened the parade of touchdowns for Navy by scoring on a sweep of left end, while Mike

Junior Varsity Squads Clash In Eastburg

STROUDSBURG AND East Stroudsburg High Schools will square off in the "Little Battle of the Boroughs" today when the junior varsity football squads of the respective schools clash at Memorial Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 3:30 p.m.

Stroudsburg will enter today's tussle with a record of three victories, one tie and no defeats, while East Stroudsburg has won two and lost three contests.

The Mountaineers defeated Lehigh, 2-0; Pen Argyl, 19-6, and Palmerton, 18-0. They also played Bangor to a 12-12 deadlock.

East Stroudsburg on the other hand has blasted Pen Argyl, 52-0, and took the measure of Lehigh, 13-0. The Cavaliers dropped a 12-7 nod to Bangor, a 13-7 contest to Parkland and a 14-0 verdict to Wilson.

All past performances will be forgotten today when the two squads come head-to-head.

Lineups
Coaches George Metropoulos and Charley Winters are expected to stick with the usual Stroudsburg lineup. This means that Terry Bartleson will be at right end, while Fred Stout handles the left end duties. Larry Beseker will be the left tackle, while Joe Bailey plays the same position on the right side of the line. Dick Reiger will be the right guard and John Slyboski the left guard and Glen DeHaven will be at center. Dick Everitt will open at quarterback; John Schoonover, left halfback; Jack Hallock, right half, and Noel Campbell, fullback.

Other Stroudsburg linemen almost certain to play are Charley Gussett, Charley Cramsey, Bryan Weaver and Ted Williams. Backfield replacements include Ted Margretta, Joe Mirenda and Ed Pooley.

The largest crowd to witness a junior varsity game in either of the boroughs this season is expected to be on hand for today's tussle.

Bangor Faces Nazareth Foe

BANGOR—Bangor High's Junior varsity football squad will tangle with a strong army of Nazareth yearlings on the latter's home field today.

The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 3:30 p.m.

Record
Bangor has a record of two wins, two defeats and a tie. The Slayers defeated East Stroudsburg and Hellertown, while losing to Catasauqua and Wilson Borough. The deadlock was a 12-12 affair with Stroudsburg.

The Slayers will open today's game with Earl Walters and Joe Campanaro, ends; Barry Moore and Phil Vonelli, tackles; Gene Trigan and Joe Martocci, guards; Mason Mabius, center; Frankie Butz, quarterback; "Skip" Menhennit and Ron DeNardo, halfbacks and Barry Reimer, fullback.

Softball Loop To Hold Meeting

A MEETING of the Monroe County Softball League will take place at radio station WVPO tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. Representatives of teams wishing to enter the circuit next Summer are asked to be present.

It is also quite possible that some official news will have been received by that time concerning the proposed Keystone Amateur Softball Association Tournament which may be held in the Stroudsburgs.

Hellertown Slaps East Stroudsburg

HELLERTOWN—East Stroudsburg High's unpredictable Cavaliers ran into an aroused Hellertown grid machine here Saturday afternoon and the visiting squad finished on the short end of a 14-0 count in a non-league affair.

East Stroudsburg battled the host squad on even terms in the first period, but Hellertown ran away with the game in the last three quarters of the contest.

Hellertown, featuring the brilliant running of Walter Schmidt and Ned Wagner, threw up a screen of speed and deception and the Cavaliers, far from their peak, were never able to cope with the situation.

Wagner and Schmidt ripped off sizeable gains for Hellertown and Denny Wagner accounted for two fine runs for Eastburg in the opening period, but neither squad could score until Hellertown opened an 89-yard drive on its 11-yard stripe.

The charges of Coach George Halfacre marched steadily down field with Ned Wagner and Schmidt doing most of the carrying, although it was a 35-yard scamper by Gerald Rodriguez that actually sparked the drive. Schmidt scored the touchdown on a two-yard plunge and Wagner dove for the extra point.

Hellertown preserved its 7-0 advantage through the first half and through the third period, as the red and black color bearers kept the ball away from the Lehigh-Northampton League leaders.

The host squad opened its second scoring drive, a 71-yard affair, in the late minutes of the third period. Schmidt and Ned Wagner, demonstrating brilliant running and outstanding ability to shake loose from tacklers, took turns lugging the ball to the East Stroudsburg three-yard line. The Cavaliers held for one down, but Ned Wagner ran right over his own right tackle for the touchdown. Joe McGoldrick, who quarterbacked a brilliant game, added the 14th and final point of the day on a plunge.

East Stroudsburg had very few offensive chances after the first period and when the Cavaliers did gain possession of the ball they found it impossible to launch a sustained drive.

The Cavaliers, far off the form they demonstrated against Wilson Borough the previous week, were never able to penetrate deeper than the Hellertown 28.

Eastburg missed scoring in the first period when Ned Wagner picked off a pass from Dick Gray to Jim Kimler on the Hellertown five. Otherwise the visiting purple and white Cavaliers were either on defense or trying desperately to get a move underway around midfield. Gray's interception of a McGoldrick (Please turn to Page 10)

Mountaineers Miss Two Scoring Shots

illegally in motion. Ronnie Stopp, shooting the works like a gambler in a rain storm, passed to Shook. But, Catty intercepted on the five and Stroudsburg's brilliant attempt at entering the Lehigh Valley League win column failed to materialize. The Mountaineers launched one more drive in the final minutes of the game, but it never passed the Catty 46.

Brilliant end play by Shook, Francis "Fritz" Hasara and Doug Nickols and the fine defensive game turned in by Bob Armitage helped spark the Mountaineers, as did the play of the entire forward wall. The running of Gary Guthrie and assistance from other backs just failed to spark the Mountaineers to their biggest victory of the current campaign.

Stroudsburg will play Slatings in another circuit outing at Gordon Giffels Field on Friday. This game has been set aside as "Booster Night" by the Varsity 'S' Club.

Varsity 'S' Class Special Meeting

FINAL PLANS for the big Booster Night to be held at Gordon Giffels Field on Friday will be put into shape at a special meeting of the Varsity "S" Association called by Tom Somers, organization president, tonight.

The gathering is scheduled to take place at the studios of radio station WVPO at 8:15 p.m.

A special drive to sell tickets for the Lehigh Valley League football game between Stroudsburg and Slatings, on Friday, will get underway this morning.

Advance sale of tickets will be carried out at the Rea and Derick drug store and at Community Jewelers. Tickets will sell for 75 cents and 35 cents for adults and students respectively.

The Varsity "S" Association will attend the game in a body and will also present other innovations. But, the number one desire is to have a capacity crowd on hand to cheer for the Mountaineers who played so brilliantly while dropping a 6-0 verdict to undefeated Cataqua last Saturday.

Somers is scheduled to speak at the high school assembly this morning.

Penn, the host team, sprang into a 7-0 lead in the second period when a Bob Kammer pass to Bill Schoupe carried to the Notre Dame 10. Kammer went to the three on a quarterback sneak and scored on the same play a moment later. Schoupe scored the extra point on an off tackle smash.

Another pass from Kammer to Schoupe was good for 32 yards and a touchdown in the final period and Schoupe went over center for the extra point.

Notre Dame notched its only touchdown in the fourth period. The payoff play was a 27-yard pass from Ed Henning to Jack Vinyard. The extra point attempt was stopped.

Don Peilly's interception of a pass halted a Notre Dame scoring march in the first quarter.

Penn, the host team, sprang into a 7-0 lead in the second period when a Bob Kammer pass to Bill Schoupe carried to the Notre Dame 10. Kammer went to the three on a quarterback sneak and scored on the same play a moment later. Schoupe scored the extra point on an off tackle smash.

Notre Dame notched its only touchdown in the fourth period. The payoff play was a 27-yard pass from Ed Henning to Jack Vinyard. The extra point attempt was stopped.

Fred Waring Heads State Cancer Group Second Year

POCONO MANOR—Fred Waring, Shawnee-on-Delaware orchestra and choral director, was announced as chairman of the 1956 Cancer Crusade in Pennsylvania at the 11th annual conference of the Pennsylvania Division, American Cancer Society, here over the weekend.

Waring served as State chairman in 1955. He is the first man to serve as chairman two years in a row.

In accepting the post, Waring thanked division leaders and the nearly 500 delegates attending the meeting for their expression of faith in his leadership. Acting as 1955 chairman, Waring also presented a check for $358,105.02 to the ACS for research as the national organization's share of funds raised last year by the State division. The check was accepted by Mrs. W. Farmer Fuller, national vice president.

Local Delegates

Among local delegates attending the conference were Dr. Joseph Viglione, president of the Monroe County unit, ACS; Mrs. James Cummings, county captain, and Chester S. Miller, 1956 Cancer Crusade chairman in Monroe County.

The three-day conference ended yesterday. Highlights included an address by Dr. Charles Cameron, head of research for the ACS on Friday night; a talk by Dr. Berwyn Mattison, State department of health secretary on Saturday night and a discussion of curable cancer by Edward Reid, an Alabama attorney, who was cured of cancer. Lectures for physicians were held throughout the day on Saturday.

The Doctor's Attitude

At one of these lectures, a University of Maryland psychiatrist told physicians that guilt feelings growing out of misinformation about cancer are a major obstacle to finding and treating cancer early enough to make it curable.

Dr. Jacob Finesinger also took doctors to task for their failure to create "warm doctor-patient relationships" and maintain them. Citing a study of 300 cancer patients, Finesinger noted that "many patients react to cancer with sexual guilt, saying to themselves: 'It's all my fault. I must have done something to cause this.'"

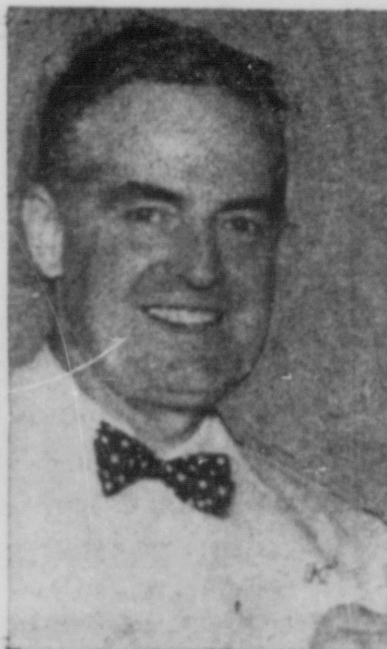

Patients who feel guilt also fear rejection by society, he said. Because of this many persons who suspect they have cancer "avoid thinking about it and push it out of their minds." Sometimes, he said, they are encouraged to do this by doctors whose attitude toward cancer is avoidance.

One big question for the doctor always is "Should the patient be told he has cancer?" Finesinger said. The answer depends on "how much the patient already knows or has guessed" and his past behavior patterns, he indicated.

Lies Undermines

"Many patients have told us they regretted the fact that their doctors had not been truthful with them," he said. The practice of "telling lies" to a cancer patient undermines the whole doctor-patient relationship, he went on, so that the patient will lose faith in anything else the doctor says.

"You need not tell the whole truth. But whatever you say should be truthful," he said. "We have found the capacity of patients to face death is remarkable. In all our cases, no suicides occurred."

St. John's Ready For Visitation

DURING THE Reformation service at St. John's Lutheran Church yesterday, the Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson, pastor, commissioned seventy visitors who will begin a visitation among the members of the congregation.

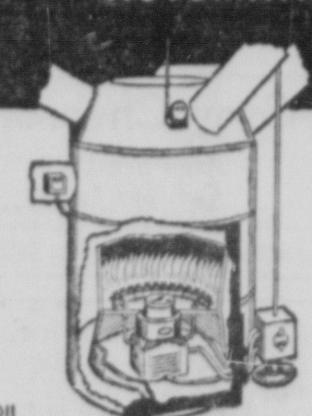

These visitors, like thousands of others, throughout the Lutheran Church in America, will make an effort to contact every member of the church with the aim to have them attend the series of preaching mission services which shall be held in Lutheran churches.

Among patients who knew they had cancer.

Talks with doctors, he said, had indicated that patients who were told the truth seemed "to take a new lease on life," Finesinger said.

Geographic Distribution Of Security Council Issue In Philippines-Yugoslav Race

BY MAX HARRELSON
Chief Correspondent
AP United Nations Staff

BEHIND THE CURRENT United Nations deadlock over the election of a new Security Council member are issues which will remain long after the Council vacancy is filled.

These issues help explain why normally close allies, such as the United States and Britain, are backing different candidates.

On the surface, it might appear that the contest is simply one between the strongly anti-Communist Philippines and Communist Yugoslavia. Some countries have lined up behind the candidates on that basis.

Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. laid the foundation for such a division when Poland was being backed by the Soviet Union against the Philippines early this month. The Russians later dropped Poland and switched their support to Yugoslavia.

In a statement Lodge referred to Poland's Communist government and said it was not fit for a Security Council seat. While no such references have been made to Yugoslavia, the United States has continued intense efforts on behalf of the Philippines.

The real issue at stake, however, is not communism but whether the present geographic distribution of the Council's membership should be disturbed. Many of Yugoslavia's supporters, such as the British Commonwealth countries, are anti-Communist but they attach great importance to maintaining the present geographic makeup of the Council.

Under a "gentlemen's agreement" of 1946, six nonpermanent members of the Council were chosen this way: two from Latin America, one from Eastern Europe, one from Western and Northern Europe, one from the Middle East and one from among the British Commonwealth countries.

The big question involved in the present contest is whether the "gentlemen's agreement" is to continue governing the General Assembly. The United States jolted many of its allies by declaring the agreement had been intended only for the 1946 elections, when the Council was first set up.

Lodge said the old arrangement is unfair to the Far Eastern countries, that election of the Philippines would give the Asians the representation they have been demanding.

The difficulty is that there is no seat to give the Asians without taking it from some other region.

The disputed seat has been held up to now by an Eastern European country, although not by the Soviet bloc since 1949. Originally it was occupied by Poland for two years and later by the Ukraine, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey.

Election of the Philippines, however, would not mean simply that the Eastern European seat had been given to the Asians. It would confirm that the "gentlemen's agreement" was dead.

Insurance For Flood Loss Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) put forward a bill today to provide federal insurance for individuals, and even whole communities, against losses from floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

It also would authorize the government to provide "reasonable indemnity" for property damage or loss of life or injury resulting from war.

To Hold Hearings

Lehman advanced the measure on the eve of hearings he will conduct for the Senate Banking Committee on disaster risk insurance, a problem pointed up by damaging floods in the Northeast in recent months.

Also today, a final summary on the Aug. 17-19 floods in the Northeast put the toll at 179 dead, 6,992 seriously injured, 813 homes destroyed and monetary damage of $457,674,044. The figures came from the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Commerce Department.

Lehman said in a statement his proposed bill is a tentative draft, subject to modification on the basis of testimony received at the Banking Committee's hearings. He said he would introduce it in its final form when Congress comes back in January.

The measure provides both for direct insurance by the federal government and for reinsurance of policies issued by private insurance companies.

Insurance or reinsurance in force against natural disasters could not exceed two billion dollars at any one time. The maximum payable on any single claim is set at $300,000.

In authorizing a public body to take out disaster insurance for the benefit of its inhabitants, the bill also provides that the government's liability under such a policy shall not exceed $300,000 per inhabitant.
